Q: How to get value of multiple checkboxes (in the same list item) I have an asp.net list item which contains multiple checkboxes. I want to get the value of those checkboxes. This is what I'm doing right now. `public string [ListItemValue] { get { StringBuilder sb = new StringBuilder(); foreach (ListItem item in this.ListItem) { sb.Append(item.Selected); } return sb.ToString(); } }` But the above code returns an empty string. The problem is that this list item is part of a repeater control. It goes something like this. `' CommandArgument=" />` Now my problem is that I want to get the value of each checkbox that is inside the list item. I hope this question is clear enough. Please let me know if you need any more explanation. Thanks. A: I think you are using

Q: Are Questions about Programming in Java exclusively for .Net Users? Having watched the new StackExchange network develop and grow over the last year or two, I have noticed a trend. Many of the Questions which are asked on the various StackExchange networks appear to be written for people who have a lot of experience in using .Net. For example I just saw this question about how to speed up a serializer. This is a question that is normally best asked on StackOverflow, but on the StackExchange network, it was migrated to the .Net site of StackOverflow. This was an issue for me, because I am used to thinking of serialization as a part of the Java language. I left the question unanswered, but I would have thought it would have been more helpful if it had been moved back to Java. Are there other examples of questions being migrated to a .Net centric StackExchange network that are actually best answered elsewhere? A: There is a chance for both experiences, with the Stack Exchange's very opinionated nature that says it is for topics where multiple answers are allowed. The Stack Overflow is for all programming questions, not a little bit. Too much time is needed to discuss that topic on other places. I am in the opinion that Stack Overflow is not better than these kind of posts but I don't make a distinction. I think that a migration should take place when the best one is on this Stack Exchange Network and only in this case, since it is good to be able to see how a user uses the APIs and the languages on this platform. SO is about the programming, and it should be known that Java users like to discuss in how they use the language and the APIs and their alternatives on the other networks. William W.
