We present the case of a 7-year-old girl who presented with bipolar disorder and mild mental retardation. The molecular analysis of her karyotype revealed a ring chromosome 15. The complete ring consisted of 2p and 15q. The clinical course and follow-up in our patient indicated that the ring chromosome 15 had important implications for her development, with the features of hypomania and depression. The chromosomal abnormality is believed to have caused the hypomania observed during the clinic course.My wife has been asked to sell the house and move into a condo, however since selling it here and moving there would be huge costs, she won't be selling the house until we're settled. There isn't a big market up here though, so finding a mortgage here is going to be slow. I have started to look at home mortgage rates, but can't seem to find a proper comparison chart between banks here in the States and Canada. Does anyone know of a website or resource that will make it easy to compare between the two? Thanks in advance. Also, she has had her broker tell her that since she is paying off her house right now, should she rent it out? While that is a good option (especially since she and her son will be moving to a new place), if she rents it out, would she be able to deduct the house payments from her taxes? And finally, since her broker would be able to sell it for her, if she were to rent it out (at market rate) and sell it at market value plus broker fees (instead of the MLS fee), would that be a bad idea, especially since the house is in a high enough price range that she wouldn't get much for it? The experts have weighed in and there is no official comparison chart yet, at least not that I could find through Google. The largest online mortgage comparison site for Canada is AIMCO. 50b96ab0b6
